Life Lessons of an Underachiever

Dave Thomas, founder of Wendy's, was a high school dropout. What can you achieve when you set your mind to it?

From the "poster child for underachievement" to a successful and recognized educator, John Fallon describes his own journey from a poorly performing student in school to a passionate advocate for lifelong learning. Perceptions and the passion for success direct all our movements along the path through life. Changing perceptions and basic mindsets are essential for an underachiever to become an achiever. Let's discover together some of the elements that can change a life.

Achieving Success by Being Teachable

Bob Ross didn't create a painting phenomenon with only "happy accidents."

Success doesn't just happen, it's planned. What do successful people do to be successful? What changes to their life and mindset do they make in order to achieve success? During this keynote, learn the top strategies successful people use to be successful from accepting responsibility and taking action to envisioning yourself as the successful person and surrounding yourself with likeminded people. Take the first step on the road to success.

"Let It Go"... Letting Go of What Used To Work

Have you reached the point where you're still doing the same things and experience a case of diminishing returns? If so, it's time for you to let it go. Let John Fallon help you discover what used to work for you and what you need to do to move to the next level.

Changing Hearts, Minds and Bottom Lines

Customer Service is REALLY just Character

They say that "Character" is doing what you should be doing without anyone watching. If that's the case, then everything we learn in life about our relationships with others is what should go into "GOOD" customer service. Let John help you pinpoint the already existing skills your organization possesses and then move you from "GOOD" to "GREAT".

The Message, the Messenger and the Medium... The "TRI-M" Approach to Presentations

You don't have to be handing out Oscars to get a standing ovation!

For every successful presentation, there is a presenter who has mastered message creation, has polished platform skills and creates effective and engaging image support materials. You are the message. The days where just a PowerPoint presentation or a packaged report / resume was considered your presentation is over. For the message to be heard and believed, you as the presenter must be motivational, inspiring and engaging. Audience attention must be focused on you and your message. Not everyone has the skill sets they need to be a successful presenter. Knowledge of content is just half of the package. Vocal ability, gesturing, body movement, facial expressions and passion for the message are just the basic skills that are essential for successful delivery. Do you have what it takes? At the end of this seminar / workshop, you'll walk out with the needed skills to be more successful in your next presentation. Successful Presentations are a result of a balanced equation. John Fallon can help bring your technology, your skills and your message to the next level. John's coaching goes beyond the basics, helping you take your presentations to new levels of design and sophistication. John can also develop a custom training session to teach you or your staff the tools and techniques you need. The Tri-M Approach to Presentations will be the last training you will need to be successful.

Designing Dynamite PowerPoint Presentations

Let's face it. We've all experienced it. It's the PowerPoint presentation we never, ever wanted to endure. PowerPoint presentations can make or break a message, a sale or a training session. All it takes is a combination of poor graphics, text, colors, images and animations to completely turn your audience off. When the audience is turned off, the message isn't delivered. Through this humorous, engaging and entertaining keynote, learn some of the elements that combine to create an outstanding PowerPoint presentation. Breakout sessions and workshops following the keynote are also available. Let's move your PowerPoint presentations to the next level!
